

Do you want to earn your principal endorsement and
already have a master's degree?

Aurora University's Alternative Principal Endorsement program allows educators with a master's degree to earn their principal endorsement in just one year through a unique combination of internship activities and microcredentials.

The internship will help you gain knowledge and apply skills and dispositions related to school leadership. The program meets Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) requirements and National Educational Leadership Preparation (NELP) standards.

Throughout your internship activities, you will also complete corresponding microcredentials. These microcredentials, which were developed by the Ed Leaders Network (ELN) and vetted by outside organizations, will allow you to earn badges that will be displayed in your Educator Licensure Information System (ELIS) account.

Additional requirements for the Principal Endorsement include passing evaluation training and the two principal endorsement tests.

gain valuable,
hands-on experience

complete coursework
around your busy schedule

position yourself to become a school leader

For more information, visit aurora.edu/graduate.